

Schultz, Aide "Going Very Fast" From Gang Bullets; Two Pals Dead

Frenzied Search Made For Two Assassins Who Mowed Down Gangster Wednesday Night in Newark, N. J., Chop House.

STERN SOUGHT

Otto Berman, 46, and Leo Frank, 40, Die During Night; Sought Racket Control, Belief.

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—While Arthur (Dutch) Schultz fled from a Newark hospital, victim of gunmen's fire that blotted out two of his lieutenants, police spread a frenzied search today for a hoodlum they described as another Vincent Coli, a mad ruthless killer.

Police guards patrolled the hospital corridors to prevent any attempt of the former beer baron's enemies to "finish" him.

Both Schultz and his chauffeur, Bernard Rosenkrantz, suffering from abdominal wounds, were described in a hospital bulletin as "going very fast" shortly before noon.

The man hunted was Albert Stern, 21, alias Stein, also wanted for questioning about the hatchet killing yesterday of "Pretty Louie" Amberg, Brooklyn gangster, and the slaying of a Brooklyn policeman more than a year ago.

Dr. Early Snavely, director of the Newark City Hospital, said the condition of Schultz was so critical that another blood transfusion was necessary immediately. A hospital bulletin said he was "very low."

Stern's picture was identified by three witnesses as that of the gunman who wounded a Schultz lieutenant in a Broadway barber shop last night in a second foray against the Schultz ring after the former beer runner himself, his chauffeur and two bodyguards were shot by gangsters who invaded a Newark tavern.

2 Men Dead

The two bodyguards, Otto Berman, 46, and Leo Frank, 40, died during the night.

The shootings were the worst outbreak of gang warfare in the New York district since prohibition days.

Federal officials expressed interest in an adding machine slip with a long row of figures, left on a tavern table by Schultz and his companions. The figures totaled $827,253.54, giving rise to speculation over whether they represented the 35-year old Schultz income. He is under indictment on income tax charges.

Deputy Chief Inspector Francis J. Kear ordered a city-wide search for Charles (Lucky) Charlie Luciano, chain cabaret owner, whom he alleged was the "most powerful gangster in Manhattan."

He said he wanted to determine whether Luciano's associates might have decided to wipe out the Schultz gang in one sensational coup and seize control of every racket in the city.

Shooting Takes Place

Schultz, free under $50,000 bail on a charge of income tax evasion, was shot down with his chauffeur and two bodyguards in a hail of machine gun bullets in a Newark chop house.

Two assassins—one described by witnesses as a "big guy"—escaped in a black sedan.

Schultz was in a critical condition with three bullet wounds, as was Bernard Rosenkrantz, 36, the chauffeur.

While police sirens blared in search of the assassins, another Schultz aide, Martin Krompler, was shot as he left the barber shop at Broadway and 47th street, in the heart of Manhattan's night life district. After-the-theatre crowds fled in panic.

Some witnesses said they saw four men flee, but a negro porter in the barber shop told police he saw only one, later identified as Stern.

Samuel Gold, a bookmaker who had accompanied him, was shot three times but was not reported in a serious condition. Police found no connection between him and the Schultz gang.

Police found a .38-calibre revolver on the stairway of an adjacent sub-way entrance.

Women screamed as the shots were fired. Persons on the sidewalk scattered. Many ducked into the subway, where the assassin is thought to have escaped.

Frank On Stairway

After the Newark chop house police found Frank lying on the sidewalk outside the cafe, Deputy Chief John H. Haller expressed the belief he had followed the gangster in an effort to cut off their escape, only to be shot down by others in the attacking squad.

Schultz was sitting inside, holding the right side.

"You're Schultz," said one officer "Are you?"

"Yes, and it's damn painful," Schultz replied.

Deputy Chief Haller said Schultz later told him:

"You're killing me, you're killing me. I've told you the truth."

Haller said he did not understand the meaning of the statements.

Police took seven men and three women prisoners to headquarters for questioning.

Bettering Conditions

A modern storm water and sanitary sewer system in Kingston is one of the major projects that has been carried on since Mayor C. J. Heiselman assumed office early in January of last year. The installation of this system has been due to the close cooperation of the local ERB working with Mayor Heiselman in making sanitary conditions in Kingston safe for the general public.

During the past two years approximately 23,882 feet of storm drains have been installed in the city. These drains were built in various streets to prevent flooding of streets during heavy rainfalls, inundating private properties, and to relieve sanitary sewers where storm water inlets were connected with the sanitary sewers.

In making a sewer survey of the city in 1931 during the Dempsey administration it was found that many storm water inlets were hooked up with sanitary sewers. This condition produced an overload during heavy rains causing the sanitary sewage to back up into adjacent houses. In addition silt, leaves, debris, etc., were carried into the sanitary sewers, choking them and adding greatly to the maintenance cost. To overcome this condition storm drains have been installed during the past two years in the following streets: Cedar street, Main street, Foxhall avenue, Garden street, Hurley avenue, Smith avenue, O'Neil street, Abell street, Elmendorf street, Fair street, Barman outlet, Hewitt Place, Lincoln street, South Wall street, Westrum street, Henry street, Emerson street, Ten Broeck avenue, Franklin street, Hoffman street, Mary's avenue, Downs street, Hamilton street and Lounsberry Place.

In addition culverts were installed in Fourth avenue, Third avenue, Lounsberry Place, Second avenue and Ulster street.

The construction of these storm drains and culverts was only one of the major accomplishments of the Heiselman administration. Others will be discussed later.

Democrats Tender Testimonial Dinner To William B. Martin

At the New King Crown Restaurant on Washington avenue, Higginsville, Wednesday evening some 300 enthusiastic Democratic friends of William B. Martin gave a testimonial dinner in honor of their "native son of Higginsville," the Democratic candidate for Mayor of Kingston. After a very excellent turkey dinner had been served the meeting was taken over by City Judge Bernard A. Culliton who acted as toastmaster and presented the speakers.

In opening Judge Culliton said that he had come to the dinner with the idea that he would be an "outsider" since the dinner he had expected would be in the form of a Twelfth Ward rally and testimonial given by the friends of Mr. Martin's home ward. However he said he found that not only were Mr. Martin's friends and neighbors from the 12th ward present but many distinguished guests from other sections of the city, the county and the state. This tribute he said showed the popularity and wide friendship for Mr. Martin. The first speaker of the evening was former Corporation Counsel Chris J. Flanagan who was presented as "a former 12th Warder" and a man who had gone out to the lower section of Kingston where he had become "Mayor of Roundout" and could speak for that section of the city and enlighten the diners as to what that section of Kingston might be expected to do on election day for Mr. Martin.

Chris Flanagan briefly stated that he had predicted the election of Mr. Martin as mayor and he referred to the sound judgment and great capability of Mr. Martin as a city official. He referred to Mr. Martin as a leader from the 12th ward and said as Mayor of Kingston Mr. Martin could be expected to do the same kind of job.

E. Frank Flanagan Speaker

Following the former corporation counsel was E. Frank Flanagan, also a resident of the 12th Ward, who was a neighbor and friend of Bill Martin. Mr. Flanagan said he knew Mr. Martin for many years and had always known him to be a hard worker for the city as a whole and especially for the Higginsville section. He said the Democratic candidate for mayor had always been active in civic matters and had also been active in politics for many years. The speaker said he was proud to be a resident of Higginsville, even though he was a resident of the other end of that section.

Next to be presented was a "new resident of the 12th Ward" Francis J. Murray. He said that as a Higginsville he was proud of that residence but he had reason to be proud and he felt that he had something which the "native son of Higginsville" did not have. They had been born in Higginsville and became residents by birth, but in his case he had been born elsewhere and had become a resident by "naturalization." He had come to the ward by choice and not by birth. One of the characteristics of the Higginsville people was the fact that when they found a man worthy of support they stood by him. That was the case of Mr. Martin he said. Bill Martin had been tried and found not wanting and he predicted that the people of Higginsville would stand by Mr. Martin on election day.

Schultz was sitting inside, holding the right side.

"You're Schultz," said one officer "Are you?"

"Yes, and it's damn painful," Schultz replied.

Deputy Chief Haller said Schultz later told him:

"You're killing me, you're killing me. I've told you the truth."

Haller said he did not understand the meaning of the statements.

Police took seven men and three women prisoners to headquarters for questioning.

No Money for Absentee Ballot Stamps, County Treasury Is Depleted

Not enough money in the county treasury to buy postage stamps to mail out absentee ballots for the approaching election is the predicament facing the county government, according to a letter from County Auditor Ray LeFevre to J. B. Sterley, clerk of the board of elections, who requested requisition for that purpose. However, Mr. Sterley announced this morning that the voters intending to use absentee ballots need not worry because the commissioners were going to dig in to their own pockets to provide funds for the stamps with the hope of being reimbursed at a later date.

Republican leaders when questioned this morning concerning the state of finances in the county government, blamed the Democrats for failure to appropriate sufficient funds to carry on the governmental machinery during the year. They called attention to the fact that two years ago some $80,000 were turned over to the Democratic majority from the general fund, which they said has been entirely used up in anticipation of taxes. This they announced was exclusive of budget provisions of the majority party in the board. Republican leaders also announced that they are trying to audit the bills of the county and have found that many have been unpaid, which with the present critical financial problem facing the treasury presents a serious situation.

Mr. LeFevre's reply to Mr. Sterley's request for a requisition for stamps is reproduced as follows:

Mr. J. B. Sterley, Clerk, Board of Elections, John Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

I have your Requisition No. 718 signed by Mr. Sterley, clerk, requesting 300-4c stamps; 600-3c stamps and 200-2c stamps. I am sorry that I cannot fill this requisition as there are no funds available to draw on.

As you probably are aware, on Sept. 27th, I requested the Board of Supervisors for an appropriation to take care of the needs of voters and the various other offices of the county for the remainder of the year, also a sufficient amount to pay the bills that were already outstanding. This request was denied by the Republican majority and in its stead a resolution was offered and passed ordering an investigation of the conduct of my office.

To date there has been nothing accomplished on the investigation, and until such time as the investigation is completed and a report rendered to the board of supervisors of its findings, and an appropriation made, I shall have to deny all requisitions.

Possibly you can get some action out of the investigation committee. To date I have been unable to do so.

Very truly yours,

RAY LE FEVRE,

County Auditor.

Shannon Acquitted

New Orleans, Oct. 24 (AP).—Accusations of Alvin Karpis on federal charges of income tax evasion brought fresh enthusiasm today to the ranks of the political organization left by the late Senator Huey P. Long. "We think the verdict," said defense attorney Hugh Wilkinson, "vindicated the general feeling in New Orleans that these income tax prosecutions have been nothing less than political persecutions." After return of the verdict last night, District Attorney Rube Vines said the government still could take civil action through an agreement by the treasury department. Shannon was charged with evading payment of $71,152.82 taxes on an unreported income of $668,219.91 for the years 1929-32.

Committee To Bring Another Industry Here

Through the efforts of the industrial committee appointed by Mayor C. J. Heiselman last year another industrial plant has been brought to Kingston. The new manufacturing concern has taken over the entire top floor of the Palen plant on Broadway as well as the top floor over the building on Pine Grove avenue, occupied by a wholesale grocery concern on the first floor.

The new concern is expected to be operating by the last of November, and will employ a large number of local help.

The former Palen plant is occupied on the ground floor by the Emergency Relief Bureau, which will continue to occupy the first floor of the building until the bureau ceases to function.

John K. Lencke, who recently acquired title to the plant with the intention of developing it for industrial purposes, now has a force of men at work cleaning up and getting the upper floors of the building ready for the new concern.

$850,000 Project for New Junior High Here Listed on N.Y. Program

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP).—A $250,000 building and improvement program for New York State's school system was outlined today by the State Department of Education.

From a little red schoolhouse costing $3,677 in Malta, Saratoga county, to new educational plants costing $1,733,000 each in New York city, the listed 100 new building projects and 28 improvements jobs have been or will be undertaken in all parts of the state.

Federal PWA funds are being advanced to finance 99 of the new buildings at an aggregate cost of $24,828,505 of this amount the PWA grants total $11,170,631. In approved loans to school districts, the Federal Government has advanced to $3,863,000 for this construction work.

The largest of the upstate school projects to win approval in Washington is a new high school for Newburgh at a cost of $1,215,000. Other approved expenditures include Glens Falls, $25,455; Catskill, $253,000; Hudson, $500,000 and Kingston, $850,000.

NEWBURGH VOTES IN FAVOR OF JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS

By a decisive vote of 1,654 to 479 the taxpayers of the city of Newburgh on Tuesday at a special election approved a proposition authorizing a bond issue of $668,250 to finance construction of two new junior high schools. The favorable vote automatically makes available an additional $466,750 in federal funds, which the PWA had previously promised the education board contingent upon local willingness to raise the remainder of the money.

Son Born in Well

Sanford, N. C., Oct. 24 (AP).—The seven pound son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jordan was healthy and happy today—as was his mother—even if he was born at the bottom of a well. Mrs. Jordan, of Near Gulf, went to a well at her home Tuesday to draw a bucket of water. She became faint and toppled over, falling down the shaft into several feet of water. Her husband, attracted from work nearby by cries of his children, rushed to the well and pulled up the mother—who was holding a newly-born son. Mother and child were rushed to a hospital here. Attaches said both were progressing satisfactorily.

British Statesmen End Parliamentary Debate, Will Go to Electorate

London, Oct. 24 (AP).—British statesmen wound up parliamentary debate on foreign affairs today before going to the electorate to seek a new mandate with the international crisis the prime issue.

When King George's address proroguing the session is read tomorrow, parliament will hear its formal death sentence after nearly four years of historic, tumultuous life.

The international situation arising from the Italo-Ethiopian war surged ahead as the prime issue in the November 14 general elections. When the campaign starts in earnest this week-end, government candidates will be in the field for 557 of the 615 seats in the House of Commons. The government supporters will include 494 Conservatives, 40 Liberal Nationalists, 20 National Laborites and 3 Nationalists.

Opposition Socialist candidates number 524, but this total may be increased. The number of opposition Liberals has not been announced.

Political circles anticipated that an election manifesto, scheduled to be published Saturday, would emphasize four major issues:

Rearmament in the face of an armed world.

Need of a national mandate to carry through a policy of economic sanctions with all they might entail.

The desirability of having a national government with a specific term to complete the tasks of aiding industrial recovery and solving the problem of unemployment.

The urgency of letting nothing be done to Imperial Britain's credit.

The Labor party was expected generally to indict the government for what it described as failure to relieve unemployment, industrial conditions and, above all, "special areas"—those parts of the industrial north which have been hardest hit by depression.

Laborites will accuse the government of delaying its action in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict until too late to prove really effective, and will cast doubts on the motives behind its big rearmament program.

Two Men Sought

Circles Close to Laval Believe Little Chance For British Acceptance

SELASSIE SAYS, "NO!"

Italian Officials Object to Negotiations Under Pressure of League Sanctions, British Guns.

By ROBERT B. PARKER

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

Paris, Oct. 24.—Negotiations between Rome, Paris and London for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war and the European crisis arising from it came to a head today with Premier Mussolini pressing for an answer to his peace conditions.

Il Duce, after his conciliatory gesture to Great Britain to withdraw a division of troops from Libya, asked the central negotiator, Premier Pierre Laval, whether France would be willing to accept Italy's proposition for East African peace.

Mussolini, making his request through Vittorio Cerrutti, Italian Ambassador to France, also sought the French premier's opinion as to what Great Britain's reply to the terms would be.

Circles close to Laval expressed openly there was little chance that Great Britain—or even France—would accept Il Duce's proposal.

Laval received British Ambassador Sir George Clerk this morning, but there was no official announcement of what occurred. Laval was believed in some circles, however, to have asked the ambassador whether London intends to withdraw a few battalions from the Mediterranean in return for Mussolini's withdrawal of a division from Libya.

Italy's terms for final settlement of its conflict with Ethiopia have been printed widely here as including disarmament of the East African empire, an international protectorate over the central regions and an Italian protectorate over the remainder.

Emperor Haile Selassie has abruptly rejected any such solution. Authoritative French sources felt that Britain, insisting on a solution within the League of Nations acceptable to the King of Kings, would refuse to accept any terms short of Italian withdrawal from Ethiopia.

Italian Opposition.

Rome, Oct. 24.—Italian officials objected today to negotiating peace with Ethiopia under the pressure of League of Nations sanctions and British guns—a stand interpreted in informed quarters as a bid for delay in the sanctions drive.

Direct negotiations between Italy, Britain and France for a peaceful conclusion to the Italo-Ethiopian war and the resulting European tension would be difficult, officials said, "as long as the sanctionist machine works at Geneva."

Premier Mussolini was understood authoritatively to have inspired the officials' statement, considering league sanctions almost a bar to the tri-power peace negotiations.

Informed sources linked to this the cautious admission by government spokesmen that Italy was ready to withdraw some of its Libyan troops if reports that Britain had agreed to remove some of its fleet from the Mediterranean were true.

Similar unconfirmed reports said several thousand Italian troops already had been called back from the Egyptian frontier of Libya.

Evidence of willingness on the part of both Britain and Italy to reduce their forces along Italy's pathway to east Africa were interpreted by informed quarters to indicate Italo-British tension has slackened considerably.

Reliable sources said the Italian government has decided not to send the Fascist Blackshirt Division "February 11" to Libya. This division was supposed to sail for east Africa several weeks ago, but had been held here with a possibility that it would be wanted instead in Libya.

Although full scale troops were not immediately imminent, government spokesmen indicated Italy would not withdraw from the course of conquest in Ethiopia, even though they were applied.

Wall Street Views New Haven Petition in Terms of Other Roads

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—Wall Street studied today the petition of the New Haven Railroad under the federal bankruptcy act in terms of the heavy financial loads heaped by other roads.

In all quarters of the financial district the question was asked: Will other heavily burdened railroads seek refuge under section 77B of the Bankruptcy Act or will business reversion stream around the corner in time to save them?

The New Haven's decision to file under the Bankruptcy law followed the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission on Tuesday to approve the road's request for a $5,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Already in debt to the R. F. C. by $7,500,000, facing bond interest payments confronted with taxes of $5,000,000, in debt to banks by the sum of $16,275,000 and with all its available collateral at work, the decision to seek reorganization before the federal courts at New Haven came only after all other possibilities had been exhausted.

Railroad analysts found several points of comparison between the New England road's difficulties and those lying directly in the path of other systems.

So far as the New Haven was concerned, it was first of all under the blight of the general business depression which left freight cars idle month after month on sidings in New England industrial towns.

The decline of the New England textile industry was another thing which cut into the road's chances of recovering.

Still another factor which made the going hard was the short-haul type of the New Haven's freight traffic which left the way open to aggressive competition from trucks.

Added to these obstacles was the enormous burden on debt, some of it accumulated years ago at the time when the late J. P. Morgan was attempting to build up a New England rail monopoly.

Furthermore, higher wages and increases in operating costs and materials all played a part in pinning the New Haven through the reorganization door, analysts hold.

Most of these factors—top-heavy debt structures, business depression, taxes, higher operating costs—remain to threaten the solvency of a few other railroad companies.

It is noted in financial circles that freight loadings have recently expanded to the best levels in four years. Possibly they hold the expansion may be wide enough to stave off further reorganizations.

On this score, some answer that apparently recent moderate gains in New Haven loadings over a year ago did not hold out sufficient promise of earnings improvement to warrant a $5,000,000 loan from the R. F. C.

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—Charged with assault and robbery James Sampson Little, 44, of Pine Bluff, N. C., admitted he robbed the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad night cashier of $12,000 early in September, when he appeared in the police lineup today.

Little was arrested early this morning in the vicinity of the cashier's office in Grand Central Station and told police he was about to revisit the scene of his first robbery to obtain more funds.

Because of facial blemishes, he wore a long mask, he said, and his southern drawl, which he feared his former co-workers would recognize, caused him to issue orders during the robbery, by means of typewritten notes.

Police said he missed $38,000 during his first robbery. According to his story, Little, after the September coup, took a train from the Grand Central Station to his southern home and took his wife and two children to Miami where he opened a sporting goods store. The store failed to prosper, he said, and he returned north again to rob the New Haven cashier.

Taking rooms in the railroad rooming house of Mrs. Henry Longstreet of Mt. Vernon, South 12th avenue, he stole keys from John Hartley, assistant cashier, who also roomed there but left untouched Hartley's wallet and watch, Little said.

When arrested today he carried a satchel in which was found a .38 calibre pistol, wire, tape and 11 typewritten instruction sheets such as he used when Hugh Gomerly, night cashier, was his victim in September. These instruction sheets were in a series such as: "Close the windows," "Draw the shades," "Keep away from that alarm button."

When arrested by detectives Little said he was pacing back and forth in the East 47th street yards trying to steel himself against committing the second robbery.

The receipts from the entire system are deposited at the Grand Central cashier's office every night.

The American Guide Will Be a WPA Project

Albany, Oct. 23.—The appointment of Dr. J. A. G. of Ithaca, N. Y., as director of the project of the American Guide, announced by Henry C. Alvord, director of federal writers' projects, State headquarters, and by Alvord, five 600-page volumes.

The chief undertaking before the Writers' Division is the preparation of an encyclopedic publication entitled, "The American Guide." This guide will occupy five volumes of 600 pages each. It is estimated that more than 1,000 persons will take part in the project.

At frequently revise the memory of others which have been forgotten, of whose importance to outsiders is unappreciated by those to whom they have become commonplace.

Take Country by Sections

The country has been divided into five regions and each region will be presented in a volume of "The American Guide." The volumes and sets will be priced at a figure to enable people of moderate means to possess one or all. Business men financially interested in other cities, school children who have to look up distant places with descriptions of their industrial importance and historic backgrounds, automobile planning vacation trips, hikers seeking new trails, foreign tourists as well as citizens, will find in "The Guide an America which today is almost undiscovered."

According to a report recently published, the number of Europeans traveling in America is rapidly increasing. Descriptions in "The Guide," which will be available in public libraries and elsewhere abroad, will give foreign sightseers new reasons for coming here. With their present limited facilities for obtaining knowledge of this country—the only civilized country without a substantial guide-book—most foreigners arrive with very limited conceptions of what they want to see or where they want to go.

Effect on Localities

From the point of view of the student, "The Guide" will be a government sponsored period history of America. The inspiration which localities will derive from having their notable features presented to the world through an authentic publication of the government will lead them to make greater efforts to preserve their literary and historic shrines and to exploit their scenic wonders and natural advantages. Many sections of the country have become more or less immortalized as settings for literary works. Book-lovers will find lists of such books at the foot of each description article.

110g Missing 69 Days Found In Straw Stack

Lebo, Kan. (AP)—A hibernating hog that went into a 69-day cocoon came back to his brothers and sisters, rather catfished and shy 190 pounds, but ready to eat.

W. C. Jenkins missed the hog from his 175-pound drive when he "chucked" him July 31 and rightfully concluded it was buried in the straw stack. Hogs roasting around in the stack "sweated" the last animal—off and weighing about 75 pounds.

Big Tobacco Plants

Clarendon, Tex. (AP)—P. A. Buntin cultivated 124 tobacco plants this year which grew to about four feet, with leaves two by three feet.

Tourist traffic to Canada during August registered an increase of $1,544 compared with the corresponding month of last year.

THE BIGGEST-SELLING PACKAGE SOAP IN AMERICA

It makes a Molehill out of a Mountain

For Less than 3 Nickels a Day

Every woman knows that running a home is a big job—some days it seems mountainous in proportions—especially when the weather is bad, or someone is ill, and she has to go to stores and markets.

But with a telephone to help her, she can quickly make a "molehill" of her mountain. It will run off her errands, do her shopping, call doctor or drug store, keep her in touch with friends just as though she were in person.

If you are doing without a telephone, why not talk to some of your friends about it? They can tell you what a lot of time, trouble, worry and trips it saves them.

Then too, you will not have the embarrassment of troubling neighbors to use their telephones, or taking messages for you. Your call will be listed in the next telephone directory so friends can find and talk to you easily.

Today, why not ask our Business Office, or any telephone employee, how easily you can have a telephone? New York Telephone Co.

You can have a Telephone in Your Home for less than 3 Nickels a Day

ALICE JOYCE'S DAUGHTER WEDS

Alice Moore, 19-year-old daughter of Alice Joyce, film star of the silent days, is shown in Hollywood with her husband, Felix Knight, concert and screen singer, to whom she was married in Yuma, Ariz., after an elopement. Miss Moore recently signed a long film contract. (Associated Press Photo)

Maroon Elections

During the past week the Senior Class met two times and elected the editor-in-chief and the business manager of the "Maroon," the High School year book.

The faculty committee consulted the records of the various seniors and selected a list of 11 students as candidates for the position of editor. This list included Edith Cook, Marjorie Clubb, Adrian Cumberly, John Decker, Eileen Joyce, Conrad Kantzler, David Kotler, William Kraft, Rachel MacDaniel, Thomas O'Hara, and Karlin Tervo. On the first ballot, O'Hara received 72 votes and Cumberly received 30. On the second ballot O'Hara was victorious, 198 to 102.

The class met Tuesday and elected the business manager. Again the faculty committee submitted a list of candidates. It included 10 boys: Raymond Carle, John Decker, Robert Kotler, William Kraft, Norman Rafalowsky, Boas Shattan, Bruce Van Gaasbeek, and Holt Winfield. On the first ballot, Everett was high with 92 and Kraft second with 49. The second ballot resulted in a victory for Everett, 171 to 120.

Editor O'Hara later made known his selection of Cumberly and MacDaniel as his associates.

In a special assembly last week, Dr. Milton J. Schlagenbaum of Northeastern University spoke on the "Rational Definition of Education." He pointed out the wide scope of this definition. Julius Caesar changed the history of England; our history is dependent upon English history—therefore Julius Caesar is part of our environment.

He stated that one peculiarity in education is that no one person or group of persons can force us to gain information. However, he said, we cannot dodge the consequences of our decision in regard to knowledge or information. He gave as an example of this point, the fact that if he did not want to wash his hands, from work, no one would force him to do so, but that he could not escape the consequences of his failure to wash them.

He said that a career is, in a way, like a pair of shoes. We want to have the correct size shoes, a pair that fits comfortably, yet many are satisfied to sit back and fall into any career which happens to strike the fancy. We spend our wealth, and a certain amount of energy to get a well fitting pair of shoes, and we must do the same to select a good, practical career.

Wednesday Hollister Sturges addressed the social science students. Mr. Sturges is the political correspondent during legislative sessions at Albany for The Freeman and several other papers.

He gave a very interesting talk in regard to the work that these men and women have to do, told how the news is given to the correspondents, related the story of the legislative banquet which the press representatives give each year for the members of the legislature and the other high officials of the state. He stated that an assignment in Albany is a stepping stone for the highest political assignment a journalist can get—that of correspondent at Washington.

He stated that the people should take a more active interest in the government, since the government was beginning to take a more active interest in the people. He advised those who would start voting within the next year or two, to study carefully the activities and principles of each party before making a choice. His talk was the first in a series to be given to this social science group.

The school paper came off the press Tuesday. The issue featured the Maroon elections and the Alumni football game. That mysterious Snoopie, destroyer of students' reputations, had three columns of gossip on page 3. A picture of the cross country captain, Joe Hart, and an interview with him, were run on the sports page. The news coverage on the issue was not as complete as it might have been, due to the vacation on Thursday and Friday of last week.

A girls' column, "They Say," was written by Cecile Thompson and proved very interesting to the feminine element.

"Anschluss" Rules For Germans and Austrians Abroad

Vienna (AP)—Tension along the Austro-German border continues to worry statesmen, and Vienna newspapers still print stories about the aggressive plans of the "Austrian Legion" of Nazi fugitives from here who found refuge in Germany.

But in faraway lands the interests of Austrian citizens frequently are looked after by German consulates and legations.

If any Austrian citizen should get into trouble in Ethiopia, for instance, he would go for advice to the German legation in Addis Ababa. For the German legation represents Austrian interests there.

In Manchoukuo, too, according to the official Austrian Yearbook just published, the Vienna government has conferred the protection of Austrian citizens to the German consulates in Harbin and Mukden.

Likewise, in the Straits Settlements and in the British Borneo the Austrian citizen looks to the German consulate general in Singapore for protection. If he finds himself embarrassed in Nicaragua there are four German consulates to which he can appeal at Managua, Bluefields, Leon and Matagalpa.

In Siam, the German legation in Bangkok is entrusted with the protection of Austrian citizens, and in Venezuela it is the German consulate at Caracas, Ciudad Bolivar, La Guayra, Puerto Cabello and Valencia.

Today

Broadway: "Charlie Chan in Shanghai." The late Earl Derr Biggers world famous fiction character continues to live dangerously despite the death of his creator and were Mr. Biggers living today, he would be proud of his Charlie Chan in his latest mission to Shanghai. For never was Chan more hard pressed than in this latest record of his adventures. The whole of the Shanghai underworld seeks his scalp and he seeks them and the action and mystery is piled on so fast that any audience will wonder how Chan is going to unravel a thing that seems to have no adequate beginning. Warner Oland continues to portray Chan as we would like to have him and Irene Hervey, Charles Locher, Keye Luke and Russel Hicks are featured.

Orpheum: "Men Without Names" and "Get That Man." The "G Men" track down a dangerous killer and his gang during the first film in a series of machine gun fire, human courage and brain work. It isn't the first of the "G Men" pictures but it is one of the best. The plot is excellent and filled with suspense and the work of Fred MacMurray and Bruce Cabot is worth seeing. But to Lynn Overman, agent and friend of MacMurray, must go the acting honors for his role is a study in a mixture of comedy and tragedy right through to the sickening moment when the mobsters shoot him down in the most brutal method a human being could devise. "Get That Man" is the second offering with Lillian Miles, whoever she is, in the main assignment.

Kingston: "The Bishop Misbehaves" and "Thunder Mountain." The popular stage success of the same name becomes interesting screen fare in the opening M-G-M film at the Kingston. With a fine cast headed by Edmund Gwenn, the man who made the show a treat on the legitimate stage, it tells of a bishop who works for humanity by day and who becomes an amateur detective at night. This double existence leads him into strange ways and stranger company and the whole thing is interesting to witness. Maureen O'Sullivan, Lillian Bond, Norman Foster and Lucile Watson are also in the cast. "Thunder Mountain" is adapted from Zane Grey's latest novel, and it has been made into a thrilling western drama with George O'Brien, one of the horse riding heroes, in the starring role. It's all about men's greed for gold and Mr. O'Brien has enemies in nature and man to face before he wins the girl and all that sort of thing. Good fast entertainment.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Orpheum: "She Gets Her Man" and "Circle of Death." Zasu Pitts has a peculiar role in the opening feature at the Orpheum for she starts out as a meek, nervous little woman only to become a regular human panther cat when she accidentally thwarts a bank robbery and becomes famous in the wink of an eye. Followers of Miss Pitts will find this show to their liking. "Circle of Death" is an average western fire-eating melodrama with the hero hard pressed by rowdy enemies from the very start of the film. Monte Montana is the star of this offering and even though Monte is no George O'Brien, he does all right in a role that calls for nothing extraordinary in the way of dramatic art.

Kingston: Same.

At least 50 per cent of trees can be protected in the simplest precautions are taken. Ordinary care with smoking materials and inflammable liquids will do away with two of the worst causes of fire. Regular inspection of heating plants and electric wiring will do away with others. Periodic cleaning of attics and basements to dispose of piles of rags and waste—prime source of internal combustion fires—will do away with still another. So will the cutting of grass and weeds in unused fields, which present an especially potent danger during dry periods.

It Takes More Than Broken Back To Keep Evalyn Out Of Pictures

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Let a movie player suffer some spectacular injury and—provided he recovers and it therefore matters—he will undergo a different kind of "typing" from that of which actors usually complain.

He will be "the fellow who fell off the horse" or "the girl who got caught in the fire" or whatever it happened to be. Stars don't have to go through this, but beginners always.

It was four years ago that Hollywood patron of a movie theater showing "Smart Money"—starring Edward G. Robinson and featuring Evalyn Knapp among others—walked out after the show to be startled by newspaper headlines proclaiming: "Evalyn Knapp Dying!"

Not Down Long

Hiking in the hills with her younger brother, the girl had fallen some 50 feet and when the boy had summoned help and they found her, her back was broken. She had come from the stage and her first feature here was "Sinners' Holiday." She was going right along—but this looked like the end of her career. It was not.

Well, in four months she was back on her feet, and shortly she was going around looking for picture work again. She got it, too, and has worked pretty steadily.

"But it is only recently," she says, "that I can walk into a producer's office without getting that solicitous questioning look that says, 'I think you could do the part all right, but do you really think you're strong enough?' Thank goodness, they've stopped that now. But I believe that is what happened to Anna Q. Nilsson, who suffered an accident like mine when she was at the top. She came back, but the producers couldn't forget that she had been hurt once. In my case, I'm sure they wondered, each time, whether I could finish a part if they gave it to me."

Married The Doctor

The physician who attended her when she was injured is now her husband, Dr. George A. Snyder. Evalyn not only keeps on hiking for her health, but plays tennis, swim and fishes from the deck of their yacht. Her proudest trophy is the all and award from a 155-pound worldfish she caught herself. The proof that she is no delicate child. She is not particularly proud.

Evalyn Knapp, who once upon a time broke her back, hikes, swims, plays tennis and catches worldfish.

However, of the unorthodox manner which she caught the fish. "You see, the hook caught in his tail," she explains. But then fish never were noted for being reasonable.

While most of the flowering annuals can be sown this fall to good advantage, not so much can be done in the vegetable garden except put the soil in shape. A good spading, turning in compost or manure, is the best move that can be made for next spring's vegetable planting. The perennial vegetables, asparagus and rhubarb as well as multiplier onions can be planted to excellent advantage this fall.

Charles Sorbello of Port Ewen, director of the new Ladies' Society now forming at Kingston Point, requests all the members to meet at Gill street at 1 o'clock sharp SUNDAY AFTERNOON, NOV. 3.

FIELDS THAT FEED US ARE PLOWED ONE FURROW AT A TIME

When one sees the farmer and his faithful team plowing, little does he realize the food which feeds the world is grown in fields that are turned over one furrow at a time.

The saving of one dollar at a time with the regularity the farmer turns his furrows will start a money supply which will feed opportunities' demand for cash.

Payroll and Federal Aid

To Kingston Taxpayers:

As a member of the auditing committee of the Board of Water Commissioners of this city, my signature has just been written, approving a pre-election payroll of over $1,000.00 for one week's labor in the Water Works Department. The ordinary and necessary payroll expended in maintaining regular operations is about $400.00.

The large payroll was signed because the work done, namely, the protecting of pipes at stream crossing with concrete encasements, is practical and because, even though the extra men employed are mainly of one political party, they need the work.

The unfortunate part of the affair is that this work could have easily been done with Federal aid and a large part of the expense paid with Federal funds. In as much as I was appointed a member of a project committee of the Board of Water Commissioners and because the chairman of that committee has never called a meeting for the purpose of drafting proposed projects for WPA approval and aid, I do not wish to be the target of the criticism which taxpayers will make of the failure of our city officials to cooperate with WPA officials and engineers in the proposal of sane and sensible projects. The Federal officials reasonably ask that all projects be practical and financed in part by city money. Now where the projects, as proposed by the engineer of the local Board of Water Commissioners, originated, I do not know. Certain it is that they were never proposed by any committee of which the writer is a member and also certain it is that the Board of Water Commissioners never appropriated any money toward them. Instead, they voted to construct some of the work, the full burden of expense of which will fall upon Kingston taxpayers.

If Kingston voters wish to continue an administration where appointees conduct city affairs with such total disregard of the cost to the taxpayers, it is their own business but, personally, I wish to have no part in nor responsibility for such partisan inefficiency in the administration of civic affairs in Kingston.

Many thanks to the editor of The Freeman for the space allotted to the printing of this letter.

JOHN W. MATTHEWS.

October 23, 1935.

Woodstock School

Editor of Kingston Freeman:

Through the courtesy of your fair play policy, I wish to bring to the attention of your readers and especially to the people of Woodstock and those who took part in the recent "Special Election" on the proposition to centralize the school districts Nos. 1-2-3-4-5-6 of the town of Woodstock, 7 of the town of Woodstock and Hurley and 14 of the town of Saugerties and 15 of towns of Woodstock and Saugerties under Article 6B of the Education Law. The proponents of centralization ably assisted by the State Board of Education and other interested parties carried on a most vigorous campaign in every district, interviewing nearly every possible voter. Meetings were held in every school district, interested speakers for the proponents had the floor and did most of the talking. Even after the request for money to finance the proposed centralization was refused by the government, though in charge of the campaign insisted upon the vote by the people. Enough said, the centralization scheme was turned down, which was a great surprise to those who had worked so hard for it. Every one was told your taxes for schools will be no higher, etc., which the business men and practical people knew was far from the truth. I was prompted to write this article after reading the piece in The Kingston Freeman under date of October 21, 1935, entitled "Monticello Large School Tax Increase", wherein the taxpayers of School District No. 1, town of Thompson, Sullivan county, are experiencing the "Morning After" sensation not unknown to other districts that have taken advantage of government aid to erect more or less expensive high school buildings. This particular one cost $250,000. The school tax assessed this year is $60,300, increase of $20,000 over 1934. The tax being 50 per cent higher than the previous year. A large taxpayer of Monticello who the previous year paid $345.72 found this year his bill to be $510.33. This has been the case in most places in the state.

Now that the school election is over, this is about the school situation in this community, with one or two exceptions. The district schools are progressing nicely in their respective school houses which are well taken care of and have competent teachers, the scholars learning as much or more than in centralized schools for the reason that each child practically receives personal attention. When a child from these district schools comes an examination for entrance to high school, they can attend one of the best high schools in the state at Kingston, free tuition and free transportation for the child, this being paid for by the districts. This centralization scheme was engineered by the interested Woodstock people to place a centralized school there at the expense of the outlying districts. What Woodstock proper should do is to build a new school to take care of their own children and bond their district for same. This election was defeated by the thinking, intelligent property holders from each school district in Woodstock. The backers of centralization say they will try to put it over next year or a year hence. Time only will tell, but I personally think not.

Signed

Hearst Can't Afford "Luxury of Taxation"

Los Angeles, Oct. 24 (AP)—Likening tax collectors to racketeers, William Randolph Hearst said today the treasury department "holds a gun to your head and you either come across or get taken for a ride."

Hearst, multi-millionaire publisher who has announced he will leave his native state because of double income taxes, elaborated on his first statement with blistering criticism of taxation in the United States as "intolerable and unreasonable."

"I simply cannot afford to be a resident of California as well as a resident of New York, nor can anybody else," the publisher said.

"The California (income tax) law would make me a resident if I spent over six months in California," he continued.

"Then I would have to pay a 15 per cent income tax in California, in addition to the lesser income tax in New York, and the extremely heavy federal taxes. I do not see how I can afford the luxury of all this taxation."

The publisher said he planned to close his San Simeon ranch home before the end of the year, but will continue to operate his cattle business.

"The cows," he explained, "are a little more fortunate than we humans are in this respect."

Describing federal taxes as "intolerable," Hearst asserted the "methods of the tax collector are largely those of the gangster and the gunman."

Walker Very Shy.

Dorking, Surrey, England, Oct. 24 (AP)—James J. Walker is nervous over the possibility that he will face in New York city one of the ticker tape parades he made famous when he ends his three-year self-imposed "exile." The former mayor was sentimental as he loaded a trunk in preparation for the trip, but not too sentimental for an aside. He deserted his packing duties to discuss his return to the city where he resigned as mayor during the Seabury investigation. He was at the Old Wayside Inn, where he and his actress-wife, Betty Compton, moved after his home was destroyed by fire two days ago.

Sale of Empire Brick Company Cancelled

Among the properties upon which taxes for 1932 and 1933 remained unpaid and which were advertised for sale at the annual tax sale in December, 1934, were properties of the Empire Brick & Supply Company lying in Ulster county. At the sale held on December 27, 1934, the parcels were offered for sale over the objections of receivers for the concern. However the properties were offered and bid in by the county.

The sale was protested by attorneys for the receivers to the Department of Taxation and Finance in Albany and on June 22, an opinion was handed down sustaining the contention of the receivers that the property could not be offered for sale since the property was in the hands of receivers. In July the receivers petitioned the County Treasurer for a cancellation of the sale of the property to the county at the annual tax sale and the sale was cancelled.

CHARLES DE WITT COUNCIL BAZAAR AND VAUDEVILLE

The annual bazaar of Charles De Witt Council, No. 91, Junior Order United American Mechanics, will open at its hall on Henry street Thursday evening, October 21, and continue November 1 and November 2. A vaudeville show will be given each evening. The committee has secured a group of radio stars and other entertainers who will make their first appearance in Kingston. A partial list of the entertainers follows:

Popularity of Part-Time Farming Grows

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—Part-time farming is becoming increasingly popular particularly in suburban areas. Interesting data on this relatively new form of land use have been gathered by Dr. Kenneth Hood, formerly of the New York State College of Agriculture.

Part-time farms are the result of the urban-rural movement which has become especially significant during the last ten years. This movement has been growing rapidly because numerous favorable economic factors have made it feasible for large numbers of people to live in the country and commute to their work in the cities. The greatest development of part-time farms has taken place on or near hard-surfaced roads relatively close to the population centers. 95 per cent of those studied being located within 11 miles of cities. Present indications are that this movement will continue to develop in favorable areas. Any long-time plan of land policy for the state should give attention to the urban-rural movement and should attempt to guide it into the most favorable channels.

The first commercial canner in the United States was required to use a London label because the first successful canning business was started in England.

A new ruling, passed by the Food and Drug Administration, states that imitation jams and preserves be labeled "imitation" and that this be explained in detail on the label.

All coffee loses flavor with age, even though vacuum packing tends to cut down on some losses by the removal of much of the oxygen in the package, a report from Yale University says.

Women in the low-income group in a certain area in Chicago are less scientific buyers and often spend more money for food than other women with higher incomes, according to a report.

A list of books which may help parents to help their children is given in the Cornell bulletin E-303. A copy of this bulletin will be sent on request from the office of publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

Many people wrongly believe that stimulants, such as some beverages, restore vitality when in reality they only hide a tired feeling for a short time; scientists say stimulants should not be substituted for rest and healthy living.

Events Around The Empire State

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—Sunday, October 27, was set aside as "Theodore Roosevelt Day" by Governor Herbert H. Lehman today in order to "keep before the present generation the great contributions to American life and to American institutions of the former president."

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—Miss Ruth Nichols, noted aviatrix who was injured in an airplane crash here last Monday, was reported as "much improved" today.

Hospital attaches said she spent a quiet night and was continuing to respond to treatment. She has not yet been told of the death of Captain Harry Hubbs, former navy flier, who was Miss Nichols' co-pilot of the giant air liner which crashed and burned near the Troy airport.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP)—More than 15,000 New Yorkers were given jobs by the New York state employment service and the national employment service last month. In reporting last night that the two services found jobs for 16,565 persons, State Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews said the total was nearly 2,000 more than last month.

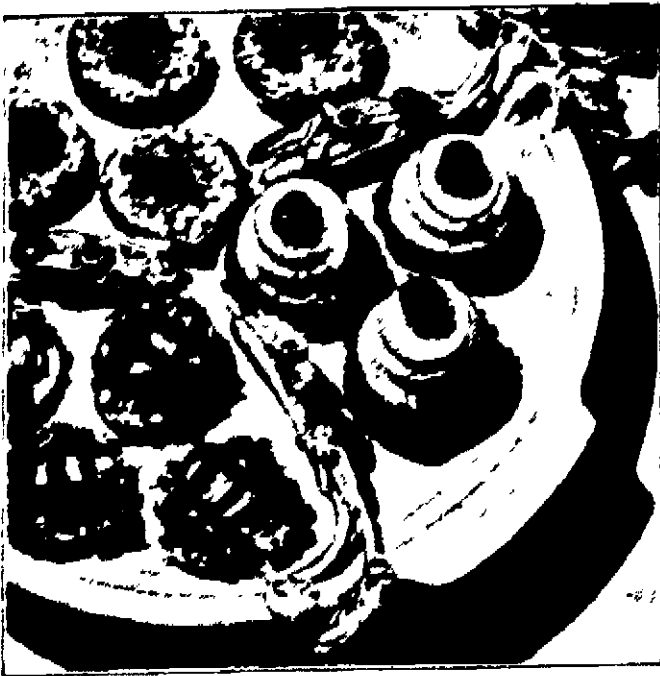

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Richard Lee, Jr., 27, of 18 Sherwood Place, Sayville, N. Y., was struck by an automobile at Madison Avenue and Forty-third Street early today. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital suffering from abrasions of the wrist, knee, and left eye.

Professors Join Union.
Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 24 (AP)—Forty of the old Harvard faculty, including two nationally known professors, were members today of the Cambridge Union of University Teachers, an organization indirectly connected with the American Federation of Labor. Kirtley F. Mather, professor of geology, whose recent outburst against Massachusetts' new teachers' oath bill brought him into prominence, and Albert Sprague Coolidge, assistant professor of chemistry, were among the members of the first teachers' union in Harvard's history.

SERVE GAY, SAVORY APPETIZERS! THEY'LL DELIGHT YOUR GUESTS!

TEMPTING TIDBITS FOR YOUR NEXT PARTY

Um-m! Um-m! Don't these fascinating canapés make your mouth water? You'd love one this minute, wouldn't you? So imagine the hit they'd make at your next party.

What's what in our picture? We'll tell you. But first notice how temptingly our appetizers are arranged. Stuffed celery makes a spoke-like design on the platter, and the three kinds of canapés are grouped in the triangles between. Attractive, isn't it?

Now for the appetizers! The celery is stuffed with crab meat, and may not your guests reach delightedly for this tidbit? Sprinkle crab meat with lemon juice and salt and moisten with mayonnaise. Pack into crisp stalks of celery and garnish with thin slices of stuffed olive.

Make These Appetizers
Tongue and cheese snippits occupy the upper left corner of our platter. They're sautéed rounds of bread, spread with creamed butter flavored with mustard. Top with rounds of cooked tongue. Pipe cream cheese, or a little mayonnaise, around the edge and garnish with pearl onions.

Next (lower left) are lemon anchovy circles. They're made by spreading circles of bread or toast with lemon-flavored butter. On top goes a layer of finely chopped egg white, then sliced egg yolk and last of all, narrow fillets of anchovy. Garnish with finely minced parsley.

The third tidbit — Pyramid Canapés — is made of three thin rounds of bread toasted lightly on one side, and buttered on the other side. Each ring is a trifle smaller than the one below, so that the finished canapé looks like a miniature pyramid. On the first ring is caviar seasoned with lemon juice, the second ring has a sifting of grated egg yolk, and on the third ring there's a small slice of cucumber topped with a curled anchovy.

Musicians Stay Thin Or Quit In Edith Lorand's Orchestra

By JOHN SELBY
New York (AP)—Edith Lorand, who is a Hungarian violinist and orchestra leader in spite of a Scotch grandmother, attracted the other day with her slim orchestra.

Miss Lorand has her own ideas about the makeup of an orchestra. She will employ only men, only rather handsome men, and only under 25 years of age.

Her first violin, for example, lost 40 pounds before the orchestra left Budapest for America. "The doctor was a little worried," admits Miss Lorand. "But in a small organization like mine the picture is so very important. Roly-poly men don't fit."

Plays "Dance" Music

The leader is a violinist herself. She also is a devotee of Hungarian folk music, and plans to introduce much of it to America. She insists that her audience understand that music is not necessarily Hungarian, and that much of what we call Hungarian music is really gypsy—as much Russian, for example, as Magyar.

Miss Lorand plays much dance music, but not for dancing. She plays such music at the Beethoven country dances, the Viennese waltzes, the Landler, and so forth. Many of the classic composers, Haydn for example, wrote much music for chamber orchestra, and that is what Miss Lorand's is.

Also a Taragato

She brought 15 men to America, and also a taragato. This last is not a natural history specimen but an old Hungarian musical instrument, something like a clarinet, and although it was in use as early as the 17th century in Hungary, Miss Lorand does not believe it has been played in an American concert of date.

Hungarian musical fibre is tough. Miss Lorand's orchestra proves. All summer she rehearsed it, often as much as 12 hours a day.

Incidentally, the curious little fringed cravat the men will wear on the stage, rather like an I. O. O. F. necktie, is not a piece of finery. It's a Hungarian institution, worn when one is putting one's best foot forward.

Rabbi Bloom Talks To Business Girls

Knowing that Rabbi Bloom would speak to them about the great war problem of today at the weekly supper of the Business Girls Club on Wednesday evening, there was a large attendance. He again emphasized the fact that he did not claim to be an authority, was not "on the record," nor was he a specialist on the subject of war, international or otherwise. As a minister he was considering the moral implications, for the burden of his talk would bear on the moral aspects of war.

All modern wars are waged because of a desire for land or trade or prestige. Rabbi Bloom called attention to the fact that Italy like some other countries was responsible for a fiction—"fictio," that she was an empire without sufficient land, but that was a matter of imagination, of wishful thinking. If properly managed, Italy's population could be doubled and still have room to live quite comfortably in Italy. It was not well to forget that no dictator can maintain himself without a successful war. Repressed and burdened peoples must be given some sort of a sop, for Italy is economically none too well off at home. After the Versailles treaty, Italy did not get the lion's share of war spoils. So some sword clashing, boot clicking by way of another war was deemed necessary. Italy needed markets and colonies and trade, and desired to get her own place in the sun. France had been friendly with Italy but England was a more powerful friend. Germany and France were opposed to each other. Mussolini wanted to become a second Caesar, hence the injection of the inflated ego. And Italy needed expansion and a colonial background, which it hoped to gain by seizing by conquest some of the "backward countries."

Crux Of The Matter

Rabbi Bloom made exceedingly emphatic that right there was the whole crux of the matter. When private individuals want to secure land or add to what they already have, they go and buy that land. When nations want to secure more land they take it. The moral and end-all of the matter is the universal private morality becomes the morality of nations. The matter what land they want there can be no peace.

The speaker reminded his hearers that we hear much about "Treaties must be observed," and he defined a treaty as an instrument between nations that is strong enough to cause any pseudo moral reason for war to break; as for instance, the saving the world for Christianity or Mohammedanism or Democracy which is impossible. And to depend upon a balance of power with ultra nationalism is to sit on a powder magazine.

Rabbi Bloom considered the League of Nations to be not entirely futile, so long as it cogitates upon people being killed, sanctions, etc.

But so far as embargoes go what is to prevent individuals from trading with individuals of belligerent countries and what of the boasted "Freedom of the Seas"? The speaker approved the President's neutrality diplomacy, but said, contraband of war has not been settled. And what constitutes ships? Treaties might be good, but wars have to take place with the killing of men, hatred, and horror before we can have such treaties. And the speaker quoted Henry Van Loon as saying, regarding treaties at best, we have not yet discovered fire-proof paper.

The Rabbi also told of listening to Dr. Fiedick last Sunday and hearing him tell the story of a young girl who was testing the patriotism of her lover by asking him if he loved his country enough to die for it. The young man replied that he did love his country enough to die for it but not enough to kill for it, to stick a sword into the entrails of some other young man and he would not do it.

Soldierly Tattoos.

It has been proposed that our American soldiers be tattooed in four places on their bodies. The reason must be so that if a soldier is killed and the tax on his body is lost there will be enough of the tattoo to save that by means of the tattoo his remains may be identified by his family. Rabbi Bloom exclaimed "Imagine such propaganda in this modern world!"

What we need to fight is not men but greed, the balance of power idea, the dog eat dog scheme, the might over mind idea.

The speaker begged the young women not to succumb to false patriotism of brass bands and cheap excitement, but to be real patriots caring for the morality of their country which will permit legalized murder and which will regard material gains as beneath a place under the national panoply of states today.

Rabbi Bloom was given prolonged applause and the hearty thanks of all present.

Miss Howard Speaks

Following the address the Business Girls took up their own affairs. Miss Mary Howard gave a very interesting account of the Y. W. Conference at Mariaville near Schenectady, held in the summer, especially because of its bearing upon the cooperation of the Business Girls' Y. W. group around Albany and our own Kingston group. Miss Waterman told of the progress of the Membership Drive of the Y. W. C. A. now in progress and gave out the gratifying news that the Y. W. membership of the Business Girls' Club was almost one hundred per cent. It might be explained here that a Business Girl may become a member of the Business Girls' Club without being a member of the Y. W. C. A. while it is always hoped that eventually she will join the another organization also. The Business Girls' Committee working on the Membership Drive is made up of the following members: The Misses Nellie Elmendorf, Ruth Bell, Helen Greenmeyer, Lillian Buchanan and Helen Bryant.

The girls were reminded of their card party to be held at the Y. W. on Wednesday evening, November 4. Miss Bradburn announced the advanced sale of tickets as going well, but urged all members of the club to do their best to sell more tickets before the opening of the party, which promises to be a very enjoyable affair.

Word was received from Miss Beatrice Fowley of her steady progress toward recovery.

Miss Estey reminded the girls of the six lectures on Russia to be given under the auspices of the College Women's Club at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church parish house on Tuesday evenings beginning October 23 and continuing through December 3.

The final announcement was to the effect that next week at their supper, Mrs. Walter Steiner would speak to them on "Superstition." Judging from the applause which greeted that announcement there will be a large attendance to greet Mrs. Steiner.

Added to Sales Force.

According to announcement made by George R. Costello, field manager, Lester Tubby of 148 East Chester street has been added to the local Fuller Brush sales force. Mr. Tubby will have full charge of the townships of Esopus, Lloyd, and Rosendale. Mr. Tubby graduated from the Kingston High School this year.

Saunders, Pal Deny Murder Charges Today

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 24 (AP)—Murder charges against Willie Saunders, smart little jockey who rode Omaha to Kentucky Derby and brokeaway glory this year, and one of his pals, Walter Schaeffer, today met stout denials by both.

Saunders was at liberty under $5,000 bond for preliminary hearing October 31 in the slaying of Mrs. Evelyn Silwinski during a wild party last Saturday night.

Schaeffer, driver of Saunders' car as the party went from one night club to another, was in custody at Baltimore facing a similar charge. He agreed to waive extradition.

Both denied responsibility in the death of Mrs. Silwinski, their party companion whose body was mangled by an automobile.

Schaeffer contradicted a statement by Mrs. Akatha Mackinson, second girl on the party, that the automobile was deliberately driven over Mrs. Silwinski. His version of the party likewise disagreed in some particulars with that given by Saunders.

Both said that Mrs. Silwinski got out of the automobile when she became ill from too many drinks and was left at the road side, and that they and Mrs. Mackinson drove further up the road then came back.

Saunders said that at the point where Mrs. Silwinski was put out he "felt a bump" and "had an idea they might have hit the girl." He was in the back seat.

Schaeffer said all four were "pretty drunk," but he swerved past the woman's body on the way back.

Mrs. Mackinson, in her statement to police that preceded filing of charges against the two youths, said her escort drove the car over the body twice, once as Mrs. Silwinski staggered in the road after getting out of the car, and again coming from the opposite direction "about 30 or 60 miles an hour."

United States Positively Will Be Represented In The Olympics

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP)—The United States positively will be represented in the 1936 Olympic Games, Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the American Olympic Association and chairman of the American Olympic Committee, said today in a brilliant statement in reply to opponents of this country's participation in the games.

"The Olympic Games belong to the athletes and not to the politicians," he said. "Knowing the temper of the true sports leaders and of the amateur athletes of this country who are unanimous on this subject, I say positively that there will be teams representing the United States in the 1936 games. The sportsmen of this country will not tolerate the use of clean American sport as a vehicle to transplant Old World hatreds to the United States."

"In accepting the invitation to compete in the 1936 Olympic Games, the American Olympic Committee, like the Olympic committees of 48 other nations which have accepted, does not endorse the policies of any government. The committee considered nothing but sport and its requirements."

"Germany's political policy within or without its borders has no bearing on the subject. The committee only followed the universal and unbroken Olympic precedent of 40 years and ignored irrelevant political, racial and religious affairs."

"Attempts to twist and distort the unanimous decision of the committee into an endorsement of the Nazi policies are nothing but barefaced effrontery."

Committee Unanimous
"The American Olympic Committee, composed of representatives of more than 70 leading amateur sport organizations, after fully investigating all charges and after due deliberation, accepted unanimously the invitation to participate in these games."

"These men, most of whom for many years, without remuneration, have devoted time, thought, energy and money to this cause, know the best interests of amateur sport and have in mind the prestige of the United States."

"They will never allow our athletes to be made 'martyrs to a cause not their own', or amateur sport to be sacrificed to a political issue. The American Olympic Committee is the only organization which has authority to deal with the representation of the United States in the Olympic Games."

Poor Sportsmanship
"The bitter feelings engendered," said Brundage, "the attempted coercion and intimidation by fair means or foul, the vicious and insidious propaganda which are being used in this campaign largely by individuals who have never learned the lessons of amateur sport and thus do not hesitate to use methods contrary to all codes of sportsmanship, are an indication of what may be expected if religious, racial, class or political issues are allowed to intrude in the council halls of sport where they have no place."

"We have many opportunities for the exercise of our altruistic impulses right here in the United States. It would seem only proper to set our own house in order before we attempt to reform the world."

Previous Scores Mean Little in This Game

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 23—Another chapter will be added to the saga of upstate New York's most colorful classic Saturday afternoon when Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute's "Fighting Engineers" invade Schenectady to tackle Union College's garnet-clad gridmen.

It will be the 35th renewal of the gridiron series between the two schools, which began 49 years ago. Union has won 25 of the contests to the Engineers' six while three games resulted in ties. Nevertheless the statistics give no indication of the bitter rivalry between the student bodies of the two colleges.

Kidnaped Two-ton "Idol"
R. P. I. supporters once kidnaped the "Idol," pagan statue on the Union campus, using the derrick on an automobile tow car to remove the two-ton image from its resting place and then bringing it to Troy by truck. Meets over possession of the goal posts after an R. P. I.-Union football game have been frequent.

Although R. P. I. will be the underdog on its Schenectady adventure, having added the 13th straight game to its losing streak against Clarkson 24-6 last Saturday, while Union was losing to Vermont 6-0, previous results mean little to the Engineers in their big game of the year. In 1922 an indifferently-rated Rensselaer eleven set Garnet supporters back on their heels with an unexpected 16-0.

Cedars of Lebanon
The original groves of Cedars of Lebanon that are mentioned in the Bible have become greatly reduced through various causes. In 1927 about 400 trees were still standing, but they were destroyed during the World war. The tree was introduced into England in the seventeenth century and a number of the specimens are now growing in that country. It is a hardy tree in the United States.

New York state now has ninety-one dairy herd improvement associations that keep records of food and production on 1,100 cows. They have 2,100 members who live in forty-six counties. Every dairy county is represented. Delaware county leads the state with eight associations and 247 members who own 5,400 cows. Jefferson is second with seven associations and 3,400 cows on record.

Connecticut State To Play New Paltz

Saturday afternoon, October 26, at 2 o'clock, in the Walkill Stadium, New Paltz, the Normal School football team will play the eleven from Connecticut State Teachers College. The probable starting lineup for New Paltz:

This being Home Coming Week at New Paltz, it is expected that many alumni will be on hand for the football game at which the New Paltz band will appear and play between the halves.

Montreal—Al McCor, 175, Worcester, Mass., knocked out Able Bain, 172, Newark, N. J. (12).

Crack Yearlings At Old Glory Sale

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 24—Almost doubling the sale price of their yearlings in 1934 over figures bid for them in 1933, Walnut Hall Farm, world's greatest trotting horse nursery, is looking forward to topping ancient records when their consignment of more than 100 crack youngsters goes on the block at the Old Glory Auction in New York, Thanksgiving week.

Walnut Hall sports the greatest array of stallions which the sulky racing game has ever seen in one area. Peter Volo, 2:02; Protector, 1:59 1/4; Volomite, 2:03 1/4; Guy Abby, 2:06 1/4, sire of this year's Hambletonian Stake victor, in Grayhound; Lord Jim 2:00 3/4, winner of the 1934 trotting derby at Goshen, N. Y., are among those whose get will soon go under the hammer in Squadron A. Armory, New York.

Last fall Walnut Hall yearlings averaged $874 per head under the auctioneer's gavel. In 1933, however, they only averaged $459 per head. That made 1934 almost double its predecessor. This year, Walnut Hall officials believe their average will top $1,000 for the more than 100 head which are being shipped East.

This steady increase in the sales price of trotting yearlings, with buyers on hand from the far West, as well as Europe, augurs well for the harness sport, veteran observers declare.

Lapps Are Not Tall
Prototypes of the dwarfs in Scandinavian sagas, most Lapps are between four and a half and five feet in height, usually stout, and of great muscular strength. Bulky reindeer skin and fur clothing, and shoes and gloves stuffed with dried grass, emphasize their stockiness. Because they walk early, probably because of their nomadic lives, most Lapps are bow-legged and appear top-heavy.

Highest Peak in Maine
Mount Katahdin, a mile high, is the highest of Maine's peaks—a monolith rising in a great forest wilderness and harboring numerous lakes, ponds and waterfalls. About 6,000 acres of it, known as Baxter State park, is a state reservation, but there is a region of 90,000 acres preserved as a game sanctuary, where deer, black bear and moose are at home.

How Minority Presidents of U. S. May Be Elected

Minority President is the term applied to a President who has been elected by less than half the total number of popular votes cast. This is possible, says the Indianapolis News, because the President and the Vice President are not elected directly by popular vote, but by electors. Each state is entitled to as many electors as it has senators and representatives in congress, and the electors vote by states. A candidate for President receives all or none of the electoral votes cast by a state, except in the rare cases when the vote is split. Hence it is possible for a minority of the voters of the country as a whole to elect a majority of the presidential electors. This is likely to occur especially when more than two candidates are in the field.

In the early days of the federal government the state legislatures elected or appointed the presidential electors, the preference of the people being expressed indirectly by their votes for members of the state legislatures. There is for that reason no trustworthy record of the popular vote for President previous to 1824. In the election of that year none of the four candidates for President received a majority of either the electoral or the popular votes, and John Quincy Adams was chosen by the house of representatives in accordance with the method prescribed by the Constitution for such cases. Since then James K. Polk, Zachary Taylor, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln (1860), Rutherford B. Hayes, James A. Garfield, Grover Cleveland (in 1884 and 1892), Benjamin Harrison and Woodrow Wilson (in 1912 and 1916), were elected President without receiving a majority of the total popular vote. In most of these cases minority Presidents were elected because several candidates were running, but in 1876 Tilden received more popular votes than Hayes, but still Hayes became President. Likewise in 1888 the Cleveland electors received 5,540,000 popular votes and the Harrison electors received only 5,444,337, but Harrison received 401 electoral votes as compared with 109 received by Cleveland, and Harrison became President.

Oakland, Calif.—Abel Ferrera, 142, Crockett, Calif., outpointed Gaston Lecadre, 142, France (10).

Vancouver, B. C.—Gordon Wallace, 145 1/2, Vancouver, and Cerferio Garcia, 146 1/2, drew (10).

Stanton's Field In Extra Period Wins For Kingston Quintet, 23-22

Frank Morgenweck's professional basketball team won its opening game of the season in an overtime period at the Municipal Auditorium, Wednesday night, when Corky Stanton, star of the fray against the Atlantic City Sand Snipers, tossed a one-handed push-up shot from the side of the court. Corky's field goal won the two points needed to break the 21-all tie that stood at the end of the regulation time.

Rusty Saunders made the last shot of the game, a foul that brought the Sand Snipers within one point of the Morgeweckers' tally, but was not good. Stanton's shot from the side of the court won the game for Kingston. Stanton made 9 points altogether and ranked next to Corky Stanton as the star basket-shooter of the contest.

Last night's victory was sweet revenge for Morgan's club because the players trimmed them by one point in season in the playoffs for the Atlantic City championship. Kingston's Allen tossed three consecutive shots to win for the Atlantic City quintet.

The game gave Manager Morgenweck a hint on how his club looks in actual combat and from now on, next Wednesday's ball will have a lot of work to do to take off the rough spots. Next week the Celtics will oppose the Cities Service lads in the Auditorium in their second game before the opening of the American League season here.

First Period A Tie

The opening tap saw Kingston gain possession of the ball and after a bit of snappy passwork, Shimek broke loose with a long shot from center court which hit the inside hoop and bounced free. Then Meyers had a long one and missed and Kingston missed a foul shot. Shimek broke the tie by sinking a free shot from center court to give the Morgeweckers the first count. Sherman, center for the Snipers, made a free throw good and then Home Meyers brought the score to 11 with a foul called on Solitar for kicking off. Carlie Husta worked the ball down from the tap to the foul line where he clipped the cords for a decent, and then Stanton made a free cut-in shot for two more Kingston points.

The ball changed hands several times and then Solitar dribbled down the center of the court unmolested to give the Snipers their first decent. Here Kingston seemed to lose control of the game for a few minutes and McMillan and Saunders each scored from center court bringing the score to seven all. Husta and Shimek both tried shots from the sides of the court but were off, and the first period closed with the score even.

Stanton Breaks Up Attack

The Morgeweckers gained possession of the ball, but McMillan recovered a bad pass by Stanton and scored the first points of the period for Atlantic City. Rusty Saunders followed this with another field, and then Corky Stanton broke through McMillan and, on a nice pass from Shimek, scored a push-up shot. McMillan was having his hands full keeping track of Stanton who was all over the floor, breaking up the Snipers' passing attack and scoring himself.

Meyers brought the score even at eleven as he scored on a nice cut-in shot. The ball went up and down the court and Husta and Meyers missed chances for two fields, followed by two long range tosses by Keating which went wide. Hamilton made a bad pass from the corner court which bounced off Saunders and in the scramble that followed, Corky Stanton recovered and raced down to the center line where he made his second field of the period to put Kingston in the lead. On the next play Meyers scored from side court, and then Atlantic City called time.

Concours entered the game for McMillan who had been unable to hold Stanton in check, and immediately made good a free throw. The ball went from one side to the other on fouled passes and missed foul shots and the game slowed a bit. Bobby Cullum, local favorite, replaced Meyers and tried a couple of shots, but was unable to score although the ball bounced around the rim on both sides.

Corky Stanton bounded away from Concours and scored on a high arched shot from center court, and then Shimek made his second field of the game on a cut-in shot from Carlie Husta. The Snipers gained possession and worked the ball up the court with Saunders displaying some fine passwork, but Keating and Shimek then shot from side court and scored, and the period ended with the score 15-14 in favor of the Morgeweckers.

The final period opened with a foul by Johnston replaced by Bill Hamilton at the center line. Hamilton had been unable to score but he had figured in most of the Kingston passing attack.

Johnston's first act was to spill Sherman on the tap, a situation which was made even more amusing by the fact that Johnston was the Atlantic City player. Captain Husta then scored a field which later proved to be the only score for the Morgeweckers in this period. McMillan then made a foul and Concours and Keating scored on long shots to bring the Sand Snipers within two points of tying the contest.

The game a period in which Kingston seemed able to score. McMillan and Johnston were both playing good ball but the extra push was needed to finish the game and Husta and Meyers and Hamilton back in the line of battle were working. Hamilton immediately used the score to his advantage and made a foul. Husta then called time out and when play was resumed Husta and Meyers each tried short tosses but were hurried and unable to score. Saunders and Solitar made desperate efforts to get within scoring range, bouncing Corky Stanton around the floor, and Meyers and Keating tangled over in the side court. The ball finally rolled out past the center line and with thirty-five seconds to play, Keating made one last supreme effort to win, tossing the ball from way back by the opposite foul line.

Extra Period Necessary. However the time was short, and the whistle blew ending the regulation period in a tie 21-21 necessitating one extra period.

The extra period opened with both teams hurrying their attack to score. Carlie Husta tried two cut-in shots but lost the ball on the first to Sherman and was forced out of bounds under the basket on the second try. Big Bill Hamilton tried only two tosses all evening, letting one of them go at this time, but the try was a failure.

Rusty Saunders had the audience tense as he gained possession of the ball and dribbled down the court to the foul line, arching a shot over Husta's head which seemed certain of going through the hoop. He missed, recovered the ball from a fumble of frantic Kingston players and made two more tries at the basket, missing by inches.

Stanton Wins Game

Then Husta, Shimek and Hamilton worked the ball down the floor. Meyers made a nice pass to Corky Stanton who tossed in a spectacular one-handed dence from side court, bringing the crowd to their feet in a roar of acclaim. Atlantic City made several last attempts to win, Saunders being fouled on a cut-in shot under the basket and making his free throw good, but Kingston was not to be denied the pleasure of evening the count with the team which eliminated them from competition in the playoffs last season, and so the whistle ended the game with the score 23-22 in favor of the Morgeweckers.

Sideline Observations

Ryland "Obeliah" Johnston made a good showing for the amount of playing he did but it was evident that he still has quite a bit to learn in the pro type of game. He evidently expects too much consideration from the opposition, a condition which very rarely shows itself in the professional game.

Morgie did not give the audience a chance to see Frankie Kearns perform, but then the close game made it necessary to use the regulars and did not give much opportunity for experimenting with new players.

Pete Sinnott referred his usual style of game. On one occasion in the overtime period he jumped up and down when the players failed to hear him blow his whistle. The motions he uses in calling the plays must keep him in fine physical condition.

The Kingston players were late in coming on the floor because Carlie Husta lost the ball and Morgie had to come on the rescue with another.

Bobby Cullum was not born under a lucky star. All of the shots that he took were close but not one of them would find in the hoop.

Big Bill Hamilton seems to be a much improved player from last season and with a bit more practice he should prove a valuable asset to the hopes of an American League victory.

Meyers and Stanton for me fine combination at forward. Corky being the spark plug and Meyers furnishing the steady influence.

Wednesday, October 30, the Original Celtics will be at the Auditorium for a final tune-up game for the league start.

Tuesday night the Sand Snipers lost to the Philadelphia Spas 22-22.

MIGHTY NOTRE DAME TEAM RATED TO BEAT NAVY

With a roaring comeback from several poor seasons, a powerful Notre Dame football eleven is expected to down the Navy Tars in their clash Saturday at Baltimore. Outstanding on the Notre Dame line are the massive Peters and Millner, ends, who are expected to stop such fleet Tar runners as Schmidt and Ingram. Peters became the hero of Notre Dame when he kicked the goal that defeated Pittsburgh last Saturday. (Associated Press Photos)

K.H.S. Plays Middletown Here Saturday In First Duso Game

The gridiron warriors of K. H. S. football and destined to win, and if they play as good as better this Saturday, the outcome might be contrary to the opinion of the experts who predict an easy Middle victory.

The team showed marked improvement in the game with Schenectady, but dropped back into some pretty sloppy football against the Albany team last week. The Middletown eleven has been a great team since the beginning of the season. They lost to Peekskill last week, 19-0, but the game was one break after another.

Peekskill tossed a 40 yard pass on the first play to score. Two interceptions passed to the other scores. However, the fact that the Middle did not score against Peekskill proves that they can be stopped. Perhaps the Maroon will be able to turn the trick on Saturday.

In spite of the Peekskill setback, the Middle will be the favorites when the teams take the field. They have a powerful line and will be expected to wear down the less experienced Maroon forward wall.

The Port Jervis team, which Kingston meets in its second league game is also very strong this year. They trampled over Monticello 48-0 with Peckskill scoring six touchdowns.

The Newburgh eleven, under a new coach, was not so impressive as the season opened, but in their last two games have been playing fine football. The prospects for the Maroon team in the DUSO circuit this year seems pretty dim unless they start to play the football they proved themselves capable of at Monticello. There they played good

They Are Not Among The Leading Teams

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 24 (AP).—Seven college football teams of New York state are having plenty of trouble scoring touchdowns, let alone winning a game here and there.

Of the seven—Cornell, R. P. I., Brooklyn, St. Francis of Brooklyn, Union, Niagara and the University of Buffalo—only the latter has managed to come out victorious in one gridiron battle.

The Bulldogs defeated Alfred on a fourth period touchdown last Saturday. It was the first score Buffalo had made in four games. Alfred was previous foe scored a total of 186 points.

R. P. I. and Brooklyn have dropped four straight games, while Cornell and St. Francis have bowed in three straight.

Union and Niagara each have played a tie while losing three and four, respectively.

The New York Aggies lead the victory parade in the state since Hobart dropped its battle to Trinity last Saturday. The Aggies have won two and have not been defeated or tied.

St. Lawrence is a close runner-up with four victories and one loss, while Hobart has annexed three games against its one loss.

May Not Win—Then Revolts Is King of Professional Golfers

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—If you like to pick the long shots in football, there are a few that may not win Saturday but have fine opportunities to upset the dope.

Starting with the east, the Columbia-Michigan, Purdue-Carnegie Tech., Cornell-Princeton, Pitt-Penn State, and Harvard-Dartmouth games all have distinct favorites.

The probabilities include: Columbia's zone loss a season record of the past few years, and some fine teams turned out by Lon Little after early defeats; the boxing Carnegie handed to Temple while losing the game last week; Penn State's clean slate so far and the Lions' triumph over Lehigh; and Harvard's good showing against Army, coupled with the fact that Dartmouth still hasn't had a real test.

In the Midwest, the long shots of the week apparently are Indiana against Ohio State and Oklahoma against Nebraska. There have been hints that Bo McMillin is keeping a few tricks to try against the Buckeyes. Bill Jones certainly will be ready to shoot at Nebraska and a chance for the big six title.

California's Golden Bears, undefeated on the Pacific coast, aren't underdog Southern California a bit. The Trojans didn't do well against Illinois but they have a couple of promising backs to turn loose Saturday.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 24 (AP).—Johnny Revolts, who played his first golf with clubs made of broomsticks, ruled as king of the Professional Golfers' Association today.

His scepter a magic-touched putter that needed three strokes on but one green of the 172 he covered, the curly-haired Milwaukee youth dropped the graying Tommy Armour from the finals yesterday 5 and 4 with a relentless bombardment of putts.

Armour, during the colors of the old guard on golf, was not surprised that he fell before the remarkable short game of his 25-year-old opponent. Long before the final match ended, the veteran Tommy said, with a hopeless sigh: "What can any man do against a short game like that?"

Because Armour's hair, once coal black, is becoming silver-streaked and because he has won the big prizes of golf from a to 2 in 15 years of campaigning, his contest with the spry Revolts was billed as a struggle of age versus youth.

And Tommy got around to that point in the 19th hole amenities. "It just goes to show that you can depend on youth to take care of you," he smiled. "One way or another."

"Defeating Walter Hagen in the first round gave me the confidence that carried me through," Revolts said. "This is an anniversary present for my wife, and incidentally I'm rather pleased with it."

"The Silver Ball" was ahead with his tee shots consistently in the final match, but when Revolts got within 100 yards of the green he was invincible, and on the outer periphery, dead.

Revolts had a brilliant 20, two under par, on the morning out nine, while Armour carded a 57. This put Revolts three up, and he increased the lead as the day wore on.

Newark, O.—George McCloud, 215, Elms, O., threw Phil Leen, 225, Chicago, 19-14.

Schultz, Aide "Going Very Fast" Today

questioning. Some of them said they had been dancing on the second floor and were not aware of the shooting.

Rosenkrantz, questioned by officers, said merely: "Give me an ice cream cone."

Some detectives linked Krompler's shooting with the disappearance of "Bo" Weinberg, reputedly his rival as Schultz's chief lieutenant. They scouted the theory that the barber shop shooting was connected with the gangland execution of Amberg.

The theory suggested by these detectives was that the shooting of Krompler was the result of a feud between him and Weinberg for power within the Schultz gang. Krompler, these investigators said, may have been shot because he knew too much about Weinberg's disappearance, which never has been solved.

Schultz and his chauffeur suffered abdominal wounds—the type which gangsters in prohibition days called "pne day wounds" because death usually resulted within that period.

Police obtained a good description of one of the gunmen who interrupted Schultz's dinner party in the Newark tavern. An eight-state alarm was broadcast to "look out for a man about 44 years old, 5 feet 11, weight 212 pounds, wearing a gun and holster under left shoulder."

Coll, to whom police likened the hunted Stern, headed a rival gang to Schultz's in the prohibition era. Coll was caught in a telephone booth by gangland executioners in 1932.

Bernan was known at race tracks under the name of "Avisack" as a handicapper.

U. S. District Attorney F. W. H. Adams said the government's prosecution of Schultz on tax evasion charges "will go on in the event he recovers."

Relatives Questioned

Three of Schultz's relatives were questioned in Newark but Deputy Chief John Haller said no information was obtained that would help in solving the gang shooting. Those questioned were the gang chief's mother, Mrs. Emma Fiegenheimer, his sister, Helen Ursprung, and her husband, Henry Ursprung.

Officials entertained many theories as to the sudden attack upon Schultz and his henchmen, and it was learned that the investigation of racketeers here by Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey touched so closely upon the ex-king pin of the beer dealers that rivals may have been anxious to remove him in order to preserve a lucrative enterprise.

The nature of the enterprise, a racket, was not disclosed. Schultz's competitors, it was learned, might have considered the publicity he received as dangerous to the continuance of their well-paying and smoothly-going activities.

"Break" in Ranks

From the office of Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine came the theory that the shootings were the result of a "break" in the ranks of the Schultz gang, with the "rebels" attempting to take over control of the gang.

"It looks like a war of extermination," a high police official said.

One police official also expressed the belief the missing "Bo" Weinberg had been slain and his body tossed into the East river.

"It wouldn't surprise me to learn that Weinberg had had his feet encased in cement and thrown into the East river," this official said.

Police expressed surprise that Sam Gold was included in the shootings, as he was known as merely a minor bookmaker and apparently had no connection with the Schultz outfit.

Residents of the vicinity where Irwin was arrested called the troops, complaining that a man was operating his auto without being able to control it. When the troops took him into custody, Irwin was in no condition to go to court so he was jailed until this morning.

Irwin lacked the money to pay the fee imposed by Justice Church and went to jail while efforts were being made to raise it. If the fee is not paid, Irwin will spend a day in jail for each dollar.

We presume that if and when the police law goes into effect the New Deal campaign some will be changed to "Stumpy Days are Here Again."

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—Pace slowed a little today, but selective buying was sufficient to offset profit taking and keep the general run of prices on a fairly even keel.

The petroleum and low-priced motor issues were given a brisk push in the first hour, but the fast gain was not maintained.

Commodities were a neutral influence. Grains were moderately mixed and cotton about steady. Bonds were rather firm.

Shares of Owens-Illinois climbed more than 5 points on a comparatively small turnover. U. S. Smelting rallied 1, Baldwin preferred got up 3, and Western Oil, Atlas Powder and Burroughs Adding about 2 each. Among gainers of fractions to around a point were American Telephone, Western Union, North American, Standard Oil of California, Indiana and New Jersey, Phillips Petroleum, Pure Oil, Texas Corp., Graham-Paake, Studbaker, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber preferred, American Water Works, Kennecott and Anaconda.

The Bell-Wether Chrysler was narrow, along with the steels, rails and amusement equities. American Can yielded a point and Johns-Manville and Case eased.

peror Haile Selassie's commanders in the south and governor of Harar province, the "Garden of Ethiopia" and a major objective of Italy's southern armies, made his inspection tour through low-lying Ogaden province.

"Motor trucks and military observers we have dispatched to the front to collect news have been stuck in the mud for a whole week and have been forced to return to Jijiga," he said.

"All reports about big battles are pure fiction. So are stories alleging wide-spread use of gas by the Italians."

Several Belgian officers in the service of the Ethiopian government arranged to proceed tomorrow to Jijiga, 50 miles east of here toward British Somaliland, under the cover of which one branch of the Italian southern army has been attempting to advance deeper into Ethiopia on the line of march to Harar.

Two Armies Ready. Rome, Oct. 24 (AP)—Mussolini's two armies in Ethiopia stood ready today for the zero hour to march on Harar.

A barrage of bombs from planes will clear the way for 300,000 men to attempt to take a broad band of western Ethiopia, connecting Italy's two colonies of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

The Italians hope for a big victory next Monday, the thirteenth anniversary of Il Duce's march on Rome, to prove their power in East Africa.

Long guns looked down on the wide expanse over which General Emilio De Bono's northern columns expect to travel 50 miles south of their present front lines to Makale.

Much of this strip is already Italy's through the surrender of scores of Ethiopian chiefs and thousands of their warriors.

Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian commander-in-chief in the north ousted from Tigre province, has been seen by Italian aerial scouts rallying great bodies of troops around the stronghold town of Makale.

Gang Tactics of Monkeys. Entiselo, Ethiopia, Oct. 23 (Wednesday)—(Delayed in transmission)—(P)—Monkey business is delaying work on telephone lines being strung by Italian soldiers into occupied territory in Ethiopia.

In one instance a pitched battle occurred between the signal corps fascists and a gang of monkeys. Scores of the soldiers suffered bumps on the head.

When the simians appeared, the soldiers greeted them with stones. That was a tactical error. The monkeys got the idea and threw the stones back.

The soldiers report that detachments of enemy monkeys are engaged in sabotage. The animals climb the poles and try to detach the wires after they are strung.

Boycott May Expire. Geneva, Oct. 24 (AP)—League of Nations observers believed today the date for launching a general economic boycott against Italy would be relegated far into the future if Italian peace parleys materialized.

This belief arose just a week before October 31 deadline set for the league general staff for sanctions of 52 nations to fix the date for enforcement of the boycott.

The loosening of tension between Italy and Great Britain, originally created by the presence of a strong fleet in the Mediterranean and powerful Italian legions in Libya, was expected here to be followed by a renewed drive by Premier Pierre Laval of France to start peace talks.

All league statesmen seek peace in East Africa as soon as possible, but some fear France and Britain may approve a peace plan more favorable to Italy than the program for international assistance for Ethiopia elaborated by the league and rejected by Premier Mussolini.

Such an "outside" move by France, Britain and Italy would precipitate strong opposition from other league states, observers believed, with the result that the league might have another "internal" crisis.

The list of states applying the arms sanctions embargo against Italy is now approaching 30, with some of them also already enforcing financial sanctions.

It is the economic sanctions, particularly the "buy nothing from Italy" program, which admittedly holds the most possibilities for damage to Italy.

The committee of 18, which is empowered to make further proposals for sanctions, presumably economic, was officially convened today for the morning of October 31, while the plenary committee of 52 nations is to meet that afternoon.

To Open Headquarters. The newly organized 8th Ward Democratic Club plans to open political headquarters at 40 McEntee street.

Four Former DUSO Players Met Saturday

It was a regular Old Home Week affair for former DUSO League players—that game Saturday, between Ohio Wesleyan and Syracuse. Four former DUSO players were in the scrap, which was won by Syracuse 19 to 10.

On of the four was Jerome Dwyer, who won six letters while attending Kingston High School and played with the Kingston Yellow Jackets. Jerome fractured his leg during his sophomore year at Ohio Wesleyan, but won his letter last season after being converted from a half-back to an end.

The three other players who met Saturday were Eddie Morse, formerly of Middletown, now with the Olean team, Stanton Hemingway of Newburgh and Abe Isaacs of Middletown, the latter two playing with Syracuse.

MARKET FOR FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

New York, Oct. 24 (AP)—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets)—Supply of Concord grapes from the western part of the state were fairly liberal. The demand was fair, and values tended upward in a slightly stronger market. Shipping transactions on 12 quart crates has been 1.50 to 1.75, with some estimates at 20-25 cents, principal in 22-23.

Western New York receipts of apples, pears, peaches, pears, and quinces were relatively light, while pears were moderate in supply. Price quotations on attractive quality fruit of all kinds were small and unimportant, and the demand was generally slow.

Well, if it gets to the point where they can't find anybody else for Joe (Luis) to beat who was much less successful before.

Chief Wood Commands.
Allan Wood, chief of police in a recent letter said "I take pleasure in commending acouting to the citizens of Ulster and Greene counties. During the great financial troubles lack of employment and other conditions which create 'hard times' commonly called panic or depression periods fathers older brothers and sisters may be out of work and the family morale is usually near the breaking point. Under such conditions boys and girls of school age and even younger have too much unsupervised spare time too much hanging around the home with its adverse influence and too little purpose in doing things which will shape their future. The atmosphere outlined influences the youngsters of the family and of the neighborhood."

"I believe that the responsibility for the behavior of children remains with the parents although the church and school have always helped wonderfully. There are, however, many hours each day when children are not under direct guidance of their parents, their church or their school. What they learn of life and what they do in this free time usually makes or mars their future. The Boy Scout organization aims to fill this gap for the boy. It teaches good citizenship, develops character, points the way to clean living and helpfulness to others and keeps the boys out of the minor difficulties of youth."

London Issues Calls To Naval Parley, Dec. 2

London, Oct. 24 (AP)—It was officially announced today that invitations to a naval conference here December 2 have been sent out to the United States, Japan, France, and Italy by the British government.

The dispatching of the invitations followed an informal agreement on the date by the five signatory powers: at the Washington naval conference in 1922. Great Britain's Dominion governments are included in the invitation by implication.

The invitations were delivered to the various ambassadors here about noon, and the Dominion high commissioners were notified simultaneously.

It is expected the ambassadors will head their respective delegations to the conference, assisted by naval experts.

The conference is mandatory under the naval treaty of 1921.

REPORTS INCREASE IN JOB OPENINGS AND PLACEMENTS

Albany, Oct. 24—Job openings and placements by the offices of the State Employment Service and the National Re-employment Service, in this state, were more numerous during September than in August, 1935 or during September, 1934, according to preliminary statistics issued today by Industrial Commissioner Andrews.

During September, 1935, the NYSES and the NRS placed 16,666 persons, whereas in August the total was 14,894, and for September, 1934, 14,820.

The number of job openings reported for September was 22,325, as against 19,200 for August, and 18,857 for September 1934.

Registration of persons on relief rolls continued, but at a less rapid pace than in August when the peak seems to have been reached. New applications for September totaled 90,334, as compared with 106,672 during the previous month and 28,515 in September 1934.

Contrary to the statewide trend, new applications in the New York city area rose from 40,822 in August to 61,684 in September.

Interesting Talk on Palisades Park

"There are three great natural parks in the United States", Frederick Sutor told members of Rotary in the Governor Clinton Hotel yesterday noon, "and all of them owe their existence to a great river. There is the Grand Canyon Park in Colorado whose beauty was cut out by the Colorado river, the Park at Niagara Falls where the Niagara river flows over the walls of rock into the gorge below and the Palisades Interstate Park whose columnar beauty rises over the banks of the Hudson river."

In this way, Mr. Sutor began his story of the history and development of the Palisades Park and his talk was one of the finest presentations the local Rotary group has had the pleasure of hearing this year. The speaker is executive director of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission and he informed his audience that Kingston was almost like home to him as Mrs. Sutor, who was with him at the meeting, was a Kingston girl and that both of them cherished many happy memories of this city.

Mr. Sutor spent most of his time in bringing a historical picture of the Palisades Park to his audience. He explained the geology of the Palisades, that their formation was known as trap rock that had solidified through the ages, and then hurried on to the start of this century by saying residents of New York state began protesting when commercial interests began cutting up of the Palisades for mercenary purposes. People with a love for beauty wanted the Palisades preserved and these people clashed with those interests who saw a chance to make money by quarrying out the rock formation for private gain.

But a peculiar situation developed. Most of the Palisades were part of New Jersey, a relatively small part being in New York state, but the people of New York state who resided in the vicinity of Riverside Drive were reluctant to see the beauty of the Palisades ruined. This situation brought about the Interstate Park Commission with five members from New Jersey and five from New York state making up the Commission proper. It was the job of this group to preserve and develop the beauty of the Palisades.

The work began on a large scale when Theodore Roosevelt, then governor of New York state, appointed George Perkins to take charge of this development. Through the genius of Mr. Perkins, the Palisades Park is what it is today. Roads were built, lakes were made and the damage wrought by quarrying was cleaned up. The Palisades became a public park where natural beauty was the keynote. And as the Commission functioned, the Palisades Park expanded until today it is a gigantic project and a credit to the men whose vision made it what it is today. It is a haven of natural beauty that goes southward to West Point and Storm King mountain. Through the cooperation of state authorities and through the gifts of the many estates and other interests, Palisades Park has become one of America's beauty spots.

Mr. Sutor invited his audience to drive through the park, to see natural beauty and its wild life, fine roads, its historical point of interest, its camps and cabins, its and picnic grounds. He especially called attention to the new Federal Memorial Highway which is a new road building and one of the latest achievements of the Park Commission. He also stated that much had been done in road building and landscaping during the three years through state relief agencies. He said it was unfortunate that the state relief agency was no longer functioning because much had been done in the past years by men on relief who had been sent to the park for constructive work.
